Hence, we are committed to meet the effectiveness of our Quality, Health, Safety and Environment (QHSE) Management System. To achieve this goal, our impetus will be towards following:

- Provision of safe working environment, prevention of injury, ill health and planning for enhanced emergency preparedness.
- Minimizing adverse impact of our activities on the environment to prevent the pollution and to preserve natural resources.
- Optimal utilization of men, machine, finance and other resources
- Devising planning systems for effective implementation
- Strong organizational support through human resource development
- Development of reliable vendors for a higher degree of Quality Assurance
- Complying with contractual requirements
- Communicating openly with stakeholders and making them aware on the QHSE aspects
- Compliance of applicable legal & other requirements

ORGANIZATION HISTORY, VALUES & PRINCIPLES

A.5 CUSTOMER ORIENTATION

The Company depends for its survival on its Customers. The Company believes that everyone can contribute to customer satisfaction. This policy lays down expectations in this regard from all employees.

Guidelines & Norms

- Every employee in the organization, no matter in what function or level he / she is in, has a responsibility towards the Customer.
- Everyone is expected to provide the best possible service to the next person in the chain so that the ultimate service which we give to the customer is the best.
- Everyone is expected to see the person who requests his service as his Customer.
- In all situations, employees are expected to be courteous and responsive to the external as well as internal customers.
- Every communication is to be acknowledged at the earliest even if a specific response or decision may take a longer time.
- The deadline or target date for finishing a task or for giving a decision should be communicated along with the acknowledgment.
- Anyone, who has a problem, whether within the organization or outside, must be heard and helped out to the best of one's ability.
- After action has been completed, a check for customer satisfaction must be undertaken, as far as possible.
- Every employee should ensure that commitments given to the Customer are honored and we do not try and short-change the Customer.
- In whatever we do, we should aim for highest quality and continuous improvement.

A.6 HUMAN RESOURCES - PHILOSOPHY & APPROACH

We strongly believe that values which we cherish need to be stated because they influence the behavior of employees and gives us directions.

Our Human Resource endeavor will be to actively support all efforts towards improved profits, growth and success. Success is not confined to only monetary profits but comprehensively covers quality & excellence in all our operations, growth, customer goodwill and leadership in business. Such a well-rounded success brings with it a sense of well-being and high self-esteem in all employees.

- We respect all people. Our Company extends courtesy and shows respect for all the groups it deals with - customers, suppliers, government agencies and society at large
- We expect managers to be sensitive to the training and achievement needs of their employees and to create an atmosphere where they can develop and grow. Mere attendance at any program does not ensure any change in behavior unless the employee is open and ready to take risks in trying out new behaviors, attitudes and ways of working
- Individual technical skills and competence are essential but people also need to learn to work harmoniously in groups. If they do not, it is like a building with the best bricks which are not placed together suitably, leading to an unstable structure. We believe that the primary job of a Manager is to facilitate rather than control. The team that produces the best results is the one where the manager actively supports its members in their performance
- We encourage teamwork between people, within a department and inter- department. The Company's interests must take precedence over any other loyalties
- We would like each individual to work with a positive attitude that encourages ideas and look upon problems as opportunities and challenges. We are interested in results and not mere efforts or excuses. We expect persons to be totally accountable for their area of work. When an individual has done his best and still there is a mistake or a failure, we will not penalize. However, we are not tolerant of the same mistake being repeated
- We would like that each individual be trusted and be governed by self-discipline rather than be constantly monitored by external control. Self-regulation and discipline are very important

ORGANIZATION HISTORY, VALUES & PRINCIPLES

A.7 BEHAVIOURAL NORMS

OBJECTIVE

An organization is very often judged by the outside world on the basis of the behaviour of a single employee. Each employee is an SPCPL ambassador; and thus has a responsibility to ensure that all his / her actions contribute to enhancing the Company's image. Hence it is necessary to spell out a few essential behavioural norms.

NORMS

- Personal integrity is of paramount importance to us. We would like all our employees to totally dissociate themselves with dishonest dealings of all kinds. We do not tolerate personal gratification of any kind on the part of our employees from vendors, contractors or any other persons who have or who propose to have business dealings with SPCPL other than customary small value gifts and articles during festive season.
- It is expected that criticism about a person or a section of the organization is shared only with people concerned, with a view to resolving the issue and not aired publicly to outsiders, customers, suppliers etc., as this is likely to undermine people's faith in the Company.
- The supervisor must hold final responsibility for the failure of his / her subordinates in delegated tasks and not make them scapegoats for his / her personal protection.
- Sensitive and strategic information, to which an employee has access, must be shared with discretion so that it is not used against the overall interest of the organization.
- All entitlements permitted under the Company policy are expected to be used with a sense of responsibility and not as a matter of right, irrespective of need. The higher the entitlement, the higher is this responsibility.
- We are not against social drinking, but when it is done at Company functions or in Company transit houses or other Company premises, it is essential that sobriety is maintained. Lack of concern in this regard can cause unpleasantness and tarnish the Company's image.
- The list of norms mentioned above is not exhaustive. In every situation all employees are expected to use their own discretion in deciding on a course of action which would enhance SPCPL's image as a responsive and responsible organization.

B.3 RECRUITMENT AND MENTORING OF TRAINEES

TRAINEES MENTORING PROGRAM

Mentoring is a potent tool for employee learning & development where the mentor invests time, energy and personal know-how in assisting the growth and ability of the mentee. Mentors provide exceptional learning experiences for their mentees and work together to discover and develop the mentee's talent and potential. Each of our trainees are assigned to a mentor, who is a senior employee in the organization.

Policy & Procedures

Mentoring is a relationship in which someone more experienced, helps another to discover more about themselves, their potential and capabilities. Mutual respect and trust is the essence of a successful mentoring process.

Each Location / Region will identify Mentors preferably from cadre E003 & above. For Supervisor Trainee, a Senior Supervisor (SU4 and above) may be allotted as a Mentor. Besides having a fairly successful career in SPCPL, the Mentors are expected to be effective and interested in developing others. The success of mentoring largely depends on selecting the right mentors.

All fresh entrants will be attached to a Mentor. Ideally the number of Mentees per Mentor should not exceed three.

In selecting the Mentors, direct reporting relationship will be avoided, except in certain categories, in order to build openness and maintain confidentiality. Regional Heads & HODs are expected to review the mentoring process, but will not become active Mentors.

Mentor will be available to the Mentee, as and when required. There could be formal or informal meetings individually.

Mentor will guide the mentee on his experiences of making a successful career in the organization. He will act as a sounding board for the various anxieties and queries the mentee may raise from time to time.

Though the mentor is a role model for the mentee, it is essential that the mentees are encouraged to develop their own style to suit their personality and context.

Mentor's role is to listen, ask questions, and probe for facts / career choices, and to act as a source of information, experience, contacts and opportunities from other sources from which the mentee can benefit. The Mentor should not be giving instructions, but rather guide technically, give inputs and personal insights to help the mentee form his or her own views and develop different perspectives.

Selecting the Mentors - Traits to look for

- Individuals who are interested in and willing to help others.
- Those who have had a positive experience in their career progression within the organization.
- Those who have maintained current / up-to-date technical knowledge / skill.
- Those who have demonstrated effective coaching, counselling, facilitating and networking skills.

Mentoring Process in SPCPL for fresh entrants

All fresh entrants into the organization will be attached to a Mentor from the day of joining for a minimum period of one year

Each mentor shall take the ownership in the success and stability of the Mentees assigned to him. This is a major organization development responsibility and shall be accorded high priority.

Mentor Reward Program

The Mentor is performing a crucial role of organization development by nurturing and developing young / new entrants to make a long and successful career in the organization. There must be adequate appreciation of this contribution. In recognition of this, one mentor from the GET Training program will be selected as the “Mentor of the Year” for the entire company, and will be felicitated at the Annual day function at HO.
